"THADDEUS STEVENS."

Some of our Democratic cotemporaries are disposed to receive with 'distinguished consideration' the address of Thaddeus Stevens, recently promulgated in the Republican press. We will say in a word, that it is the duty of the American People to treat both this author and his lucubrations with the scorp and contempt which they deserve : and it is only because of the additional notoriety which our brethren of the Democrat ic press seem likely to give to this bad man, that we allude, in a formal manner, to him nt all. To the future historian he can only be known as a practical decrier of an established moral code; a disturber of the public peace ; and an insulter of public taste. The best that can be said of him is, that in always been consistent with himself. The fear of God was never before his eyes; the opinions which his neighbors might hold as to the purity of his domestic relations, never disturbed his equanimity; and as to the white men of America, he entertained for both the most supreme contempt. In him was found the quintessence of ecotism .--Nobody should live, move, or have a being except in Thaddeus Stevens. A one idea man, and that idea now exploded.

The weakness of the cause and the weakness of its supporter are equally apparent in his address; and the young men of the country will let the dead bury their dead, and march forward to such reforms as an enlightened public sentiment now indicates, spurning, as they go by, the political carcass of Thaddeus Stevens.

It will be remembered by all those in attendance at the Chicago Convention in 1864, that THOMAS H. SEYMOUR was prominent before that Convention as a candidate for the Presidency. He received the vote of Delaware, Maryland, Indiana, Ohio, and Missouri. At this time the name of Mr. SEYMOUR was used against his wish, as he Mr. Stewart of Ohio, in behalf of the del-McClellan, who afterwards received the unanimous nomination.

In consequence of a large number of the newly made (colored) citizens not knowing or remembering their registered names, the polls were kept open in several of the election districts in the Southern States for two or three days, by order of the Military Satraps in command. Of course these new citizens belong to the God and immorality party, where all the intelligence are found !

A Radical spread sagle editor, who recently addressed a meeting in New York State, wanted wings to fly to every village and hamlet in in the broad land, there to tell the story of Andrew Johnson's perfidy to the Republican party. Man's Government Forecer! The annual State elections in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Maryland, Illinois, Wisconsiu, Minnesota and Kansas were held on Tuesday of last week. The great reaction still goes on. The people in each of the States named have done their duty nobly and fearlessly for the Union and the Constitution. In thunder tones the Radical leaders have been rebuked, and told to stay their barrieidal hands against the most blessed country the sun ever shone upon. NOVEMBER 6th, 1867. MR. EDITOR :-- Please insert the following remarks in your valuable paper that the render of the same may see the compliment paid to the Benton School. On visiting the Town of Benton last Saturday, I was informed, that in the evening the citizens of that place purposed on holding an exhibition in the church near by. Being kindly invited to attend and all appearances being favorable for a pleasant evening, I thought I would go and see the performance. On entering the house the spectators eye was preother decorations which had been properly arranged on the partition in front of the rostrum by those who participated in the evening's exercises. The browd had not been assembled long when it was announced by the Teacher, that they were ready to commence. The scene was opened by three young ladies who boldly and successfully sung in consert a piece very appropriate to the occasion, after which the audience was cutertained for about two hours, with declamation, dialogues, essays and several picces of music played on the Dulcime, by the ladies; all exhibited to the general satisfac tion of those present. Good order prevailed considering the number in attendance. To be brief, the manner in which the whole thing passed off, proved to all there, that the scholars of the Benton school must have been under the instruction and training of a New York, it spreads before the reader good and competent Teacher. Exhibitions of this kind are generally interesting and no doubt to a certain extent are beneficial especially to the participants, but their importance should be a secondary consideration with our common schools to that of other studies, insamuch as it requires a great deal of study and training to exhibit successfully, which must of necessity take their time and attention from other and more important A SPECTATOR. natters.
